that's good advice. thank you.

he is currently traveling but we are talking friday. he offered to look at a deck now but thought the most appropriate way to introduce would be over a meeting or at least sharing a screen.

all right. i would not delay with AM--you are ready to go IMO, every day counts too. that's my advice, i've seen/done a lot of these things. there is no good time to drop a big project, you just press the go button in my opinion. the more urgency you put on it the better. i remember all the times i've brought up major deals in my life and it's like a movie scene of a general planning a war campaign or intelligence agent planning a mission, you get a window of opportunity and you deliver.

that's my pep talk, haha.

Was traveling most of today. Spoke to Lance, Kandis & Leonora. Kandis can catch you up there. Prob a relevant and timely conversation.

Should have cert shortly.

Had BD call. Got the impression a lot of ppl out of office. Was going to wish happy new year and check AM's schedule tomorrow morning for presentation. Perhaps first thing next week would be better. Would like to iron out a bit more.

Was going to reach out to RT but thought it may make sense for you to speak with Kandis first..

Let me know your thoughts.
